UPDATE FROM BLUEBONNET ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE

(BASTROP) – Bluebonnet Electric Cooperative resumed field operations and power restoration activities at 6:15 a.m. Saturday in all of its service territory.

“Wind speeds have dropped enough that we can safely resume power restoration activities throughout our service territory,” said Will Holford, Bluebonnet spokesman. “Our crews will begin to restore power to the more than 900 members, primarily in Washington county, who are without electricity.”

As of 6:15 a.m. Saturday morning, Bluebonnet reported 22 outages, concentrated in and around Washington county, affecting more than 900 members.

“Our crews will address hazardous and life-threatening situations, and then restore power to emergency services and critical-care locations,” Holford said. “Bluebonnet is committed to ensuring public safety and to restoring power to the greatest number of members in the least amount of time.”
